Question 1

[Estimated Time: 10 minutes]

I. Read the given paragraphs and write the sentence number in your copy for the sentence that you think should be crossed out to achieve unity. [4 marks]

II. Correct the errors of spelling and punctuation. [3 marks]

1 For one thing, I had to deal with a demoralizing physical problem—acne. 2 Some days, I would wake up in the morning with a red bump the size of a taillight on my nose. 3 Since I worried constantly about my appearance anyway acne outbreaks could turn me into a crying, screaming maniac. 4 Plastering on a layer of (at the time) orange-colored Clearasil, which didnt fool anybody, I would slink into school, hoping that nobody is noticing. 5 Within the last few years, however, treatments of acne have improved. 6 Now skin doctors prescribe special drugs that clear up pimples almost imediately. 7 An acne attack could shatter whatever small amount of self-esteem I had managed to build up.

8 In addition to fighting acne I felt compelled to fight my family. 9 As a teenager, I needed to be independent. 10 At that time, the most important thing in life was to be close to my friends and to try out new, more adult experiences. 11 Unfortunately, my family seemed to get in the way. 12 My little brother, for instance, turned into my enemy. 13 We are close now, though. 14 In fact Eddie recently painted my new apartment for me. 15 Eddie used to barge into my room, make calls on my cell phone, and read my e-mail. 16 I would threaten to tie him up and leave him in a garbage dumpster.
